

Air Force Global Engagement

One step below the JCS Joint Vision 2010 is the Air Force's new strategic vision called "Global Engagement" which is designed to complement the Joint Vision 2010 initiative and serve as a blueprint for the Air Force of the 21st century where space, precision strike, rapid mobility and information warfare will play increasingly significant roles in defeating threats of the future.

As part of Global Engagement, the Air Force has identified its six core competencies:

1. Air and Space Superiority
2. Global Attack
3. Rapid Global Mobility
4. Precision Engagement
5. Information Superiority
6. Agile Combat Support

At the heart of Global Engagement is the commitment to fully integrate air and space into all Air Force operations and throughout its culture. Desert Storm demonstrated the benefit of space based platforms, and the Air Force is committed to providing the necessary space capabilities to joint forces commanders in the future.

SBIRS Strategic Plan

To implement the DoD Joint Vision 2010 and the Air Force's vision of Global Engagement, the SBIRS Program Office is guided by a strategic plan to develop, deploy and sustain the best space based surveillance systems for the Nation.

-- Vision --

At the core of the SBIRS Strategic Plan is our vision statement: "PROVIDING THE WORLD'S BEST SPACE-BASED SURVEILLANCE SYSTEM FOR THE NATION." This statement explains where the SBIRS Program Office wants to be in the future.

-- Mission --

In order to realize this vision, we must know what our mission is today and what defines our purpose. The SBIRS mission is to, "DEVELOP, DEPLOY AND SUSTAIN SPACE BASED SURVEILLANCE SYSTEM FOR MISSILE WARNING, MISSILE DEFENSE, BATTLESPACE CHARACTERIZATION, AND TECHNICAL INTELLIGENCE."
